DOLITTLE SETS W WORLD AIR PEED RECORD

Makes 296.287 Miles an Hour at Cleveland Races.

MARK IS OFFICIAL

Nearly 18 Miles an Hour Faster Than Previous Record.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND AIRPORT, Sept. 3—Major James H. Doolittle set a new world speed mark of 296.257 miles an hour over the three kilometer course here today at the national air races.

Doolittle's speed was nearly 18 miles an hour faster than the previous world mark of 278.487 in 1924 by Warrant Officer Bonnet in France.

The former army flier carried a barograph to make his record official.

After breaking a record he continued flying the course and flashed the pylons, his plane a blur in the blue haze, on the fifth lap at 306 miles an hour.

His plane looked like a fat red headed bug as it flattened into the distance.

Flies Low

A strong wind was blowing and the air was bumpy, but the major held his plane close to the ground.

The timers averaged his second, third, fourth and fifth laps at 296.257 miles an hour. The rules provide that any four consecutive laps may be used to determine the record.

The average is almost 18 miles an hour faster than the old record.

The barograph and timers' official records must be calibrated by the government bureau of standards at Washington, D. C., and then approved by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, world governing body of competitive aviation events, before the record is made official.

Major Doolittle had been the choice of the experts as the flier most probable to break the mark set several years ago by the late Adjt. Bonnett of France. But three others, Jimmie Haizlip, new trans-continental record holder, James R. Wedell, of New Orleans, and Robert L. Hall of Springfield, Mass., at least were hopeful.

Doolittle Confident

Doolittle flew his stubby high-powered monoplane at an average of 282.672 miles an hour in four laps Wednesday, two with the wind and two against it, but his margin was insufficient under air race rules to credit him with breaking the previous record.

Today, however, Doolittle had completed a new tune-up and installed a more efficient propeller and believed his plane would be 10 miles-an-hour faster.

Haizlip made an average speed of 254.363 in an attempt at the record yesterday. Haizlip hit close to 275 miles an hour a few days ago on his trans-nation flight, and like Hall, hoped to do better. Wedell's plane also was primed for similar speed.

Two pilots hurt yesterday when their planes locked wings in the air and crashed, continued in serious condition early today, but doctors said they would recover. The victims were Paul S. Bloom of Davenport, Ia., and William Warrick of Cleveland.

Throng Sees Crash

They were speeding 100 miles-an-hour, about 50 feet above the ground, and were rounding a pylon before the gaze of thousands of spectators, when the accident occurred. Warrick suffered a concussion of the brain and Bloom was similarly injured, but not so seriously.

Almost as spectacular as the crash of the two planes, was a parachute jump by Mrs. Marie McMillin, 25-year-old mother, from a height of 20,000 feet—a new unofficial world's record for women.

Planes Collide At Air Races

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 3—Johnny Miller of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Al Wilson of Hollywood, Calif., today collided in front of the grand stands for the second major crash-up in two days at the national air races.

Wilson, flying his model of a 1920 pusher airplane, and Miller in an autogyro, were staging a demonstration of the old and new in aviation. The condition of the two pilots could not be immediately determined.

Wilson in making a turn, got over the windmill paddles of the autogyro and the two smashed to the ground directly in front of the Bobbe Byron on the circle used daily by parachute jumpers and amateur bombers for their target.

The announcer informed the audience that Miller was without but that Wilson was unconscious.

RUBIO CLOSES STORMY TERM

Resignation of Mexican Ruler Brings Political Turmoil to Head.

REASON IS UNCERTAIN

Reported Coming to U. S. for Medical Treatment; Served 2½ Years.

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 3—President Pascual Ortiz Rubio sent his resignation to congress today, bringing a turbulent political crisis to a head after nearly three weeks of rumor and uncertainty.

He disclosed his decision to his cabinet late yesterday, and the ministers also stepped aside to give congress and the president to be selected a free hand.

Pascual Rubio

The president's resignation was entrusted to Gen. Juan Jose Rios, secretary of the interior, who announced early today the document would be handed to congress.

Ortiz Rubio stepped down a little over two and a half years after he had been inaugurated to serve the remaining four years of the late Alvaro Obregon's six-year term.

Congress undoubtedly will consider the resignation immediately, and there is a possibility a successor may be chosen before nightfall today, although several legal technicalities must be straightened out before the post is filled.

May Name Rodriguez

Most prominently mentioned for the office is Gen. Abelardo L. Rodriguez, minister of war in Ortiz Rubio's cabinet, who came into prominence during the Escobar revolution two years ago. Others high in the running are Alberto J. Pani, Ortiz Rubio's minister of finance and veteran diplomat, and Gen. Joaquin Amaro, former secretary of war.

General Joe Rios' announcement avoided mention of the reason for

MARION YOUTH WINS IN PLANE CONTEST

Paul Hoffman Takes Second Place with Model at Ohio State Fair.

Paul Hoffman, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hoffman of 508 Bixler avenue was the only boy not from Columbus or Dayton, to win a place in the airplane model contests at the Ohio state fair, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Hoffman took second place.

The Dayton Airplane club of Dayton won the model contests by a slight edge over Columbus.

O. W. Feeley, contact man for Fair Manager Charles M. Beer, was knocked down in a fist fight with a concessionaire at the fair today when the latter attempted to remove his stand before the ending of the fair, the Associated Press dispatch said. The fight was ended by National Guardsmen. Beer had ordered all concessions to remain on the grounds in keeping with their contracts until the fair program ended.

While no accurate estimate of attendance for the week was available, officials last night placed the mark at somewhere between 250,000 and 300,000 for the first five days.

ALL CITY TO JOIN IN LABOR HOLIDAY

Central Union's Picnic at Lincoln Park Only Community Event Planned.

All Marion will join in the observance of Labor Day Monday. Banks, building and loan companies as well as practically all of the downtown stores will be closed all day to give their employes an opportunity to observe the day. The courthouse and city hall will also be closed.

Aside from the picnic to be held by the Central Labor union at Lincoln park, there will be no public celebration. Many are planning picnics and motor tripe to other parts of the state.

Dinner Opens Picnic

The picnic at Lincoln park will open at 11:30 a. m. with a dinner presided over by George S. Eyre, general chairman. Brief talks by members of the Central Labor union will be the extent of the speech making, it was announced by the chairman.

Following the dinner three ball games will be played at Lincoln park diamond by the A. L. Brooks' Morticians, a colored team from Columbus, the Jenner Lunches and the Underwood Poultry teams of Marion, and the Bucyrus Bulldogs. Numbers will be drawn at noon to decide which teams will oppose each other. The first game is at 1 p. m.

An archery contest to be staged by Boy Scouts under the direction of C. A. Allen, will feature a program following the ball games.

Scouts from Findlay, Lima and Marion will take part in the event. The contestants will represent various Indian tribes. The Marion boys will represent the Wyandot Indians and will wear the complete Wyandot costume while the contestants from Findlay will also represent the Wyandots but will wear the headdress only. Lima scouts will represent the Shawnee Indians and will wear the headdress of the tribe.

Runners Carry Message

Time sticks such as were used by the Indians, were brought from Findlay and Lima by runners from the local tribe, yesterday. Robert Eyre and Don Eggleston, wearing the Indian runner costumes carried the message from the council fire and archery contest to the neighboring cities. The sticks carried at the top with the emblem of the tribe, each bore three notches indicating the number of days until the contest. The sticks will be returned to the visiting scouts following the council fire Monday night.

SCHOOL INSTRUCTOR RESIGNS POST HERE

A. A. Wise, Central Junior Teacher, Accepts Mansfield Reformatory Position.

A. A. Wise, teacher in the Marion public schools since 1921, has resigned to accept a position as instructor at the Mansfield reformatory. His resignation has not been acted upon, George A. Bowman, superintendent of schools, said this morning, but will be accepted by the board of education at a meeting Sept. 12.

Mr. Wise gave as his reason for resigning that he would receive a better salary and that the employment was more certain.

The position left vacant by Mr. Wise's resignation will be filled by reinstating one of the teachers who was dropped last spring in making the cut of 16 teachers as a part of the retrenchment program for the 1932-33 school year, Mr. Bowman said.

Mr. Wise taught seventh and eighth grade mathematics at Central Junior High school during his time here. Previous to his teaching here, he taught in the Mansfield city schools and at one time was a teacher at the Mansfield reformatory.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise and family moved to Mansfield this week from their home at 208 Lincoln avenue.

ITALY RAISES LEVY ON U. S. PRODUCTS

Heavy Tariff Virtually Bars Entry of Lard and Dried Fruits.

By The Associated Press

ROME, Sept. 3—Heavy tariff increases published today virtually shut out of Italy frozen beef from Argentina and United States imports of lard, hominy and dried fruits.

The duty on frozen beef is raised from 27.20 lire per quintal to 160 lire for Argentine, which has most-favored-nation treatment. The object of the increase is to protect and encourage Italian industry.

The duty on lard is raised from 45.50 lire to 200 lire per quintal and on hominy from 45 to 200. Last year the United States sent 20,000 quintals of lard and hominy to Italy.

The duty on prunes and other dried fruits is boosted from 45 lire to 200 per quintal. The United States exports to Italy last year were 15,000 quintals.

Wall St. Belief in Business Turn After Labor Day Inspires Rally.

COTTON, WHEAT JOIN IN

Pivotal Issues Move Ahead to New Tops of Summer Recovery.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—Wall Street's belief that business would take a definite turn for the better after Labor day inspired another hustling advance in stock prices today.

With cotton and wheat higher, shares showed extreme gains of 1 to 35, and the standard statistics average of 90 issues was pushed to a new high for the year.

Several pivotal stocks, including U. S. Steel, General Motors and American Telephone, showed ahead to new tops for the summer recovery.

Advance, brokers recalled, was in keeping with bull market tradition, for during 1928 and 1929 it frequently happened that prices skyrocketed on the eve of a holiday. Incidentally, it was just three years ago that averages of rail and industrial stocks were making their record highs.

News of the day included further reports of expanding steel mill operations in the near future. There was also a rise of 10,321 cars in loadings of revenue freight for the week ended Aug. 27, a gain which the market viewed as satisfactory. Steel utility, chemical and merchandise shares were particularly strong, although rails lagged somewhat behind those groups.

MINISTERS' PENSION SETTLEMENT IS NEAR

Methodist Conference Nears Decision on Question of Retired Pastors' Claims.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 2—After two and a half years study of the problem, the Ohio conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, prepared to act today toward settling the pension claims of scores of retired ministers.

Paying the full claims, heretofore prevented by financial conditions, has been a major subject since the conference's convention opened Tuesday. A settlement would be regarded as an outstanding accomplishment.

A state rally of the Epworth League will be held tonight at which Dr. W. E. Gratz of Chicago, editor of the Epworth Herald, will speak.

Two ministers went to trial today before a group of church officials in a closed session. It was said their names and the nature of the charges would not be made public unless they were convicted.

Thirty-eight new cars were sold last month, compared with 30 in August, 1931. Four new trucks were sold compared with three last year. The total number of titles of cars filed was 322 last month compared with 300 the same period a year ago.

OHIO TO JOIN FARM STRIKE

2,000 Farmers Take Initial Steps in Movement for Higher Prices.

OPPOSED TO PICKETING

Peaceful Withholding of All Products from Market Planned by Organization.

By The Associated Press

BOWLING GREEN, O., Sept. 3—More than 2,000 farmers of northern Ohio were banded together today as the nucleus of a state-wide Farmers' Holiday association, planning to halt the sale of farm products in the hope of raising prices.

The farmers took initial steps of organization in a mass meeting here yesterday, and appointed a board to further the step and to outline definite policies.

Thus far, the farm group is agreed upon a "peaceful withholding" of their products, but is opposed to highway picketing such as was attempted in Iowa and other mid-west states.

A. E. Lain of Bowling Green was named chairman of the board.

Glenn E. Miller, president of the Iowa Farmers union, who addressed the meeting, outlined what he called the failure of the administration to heed the demands of farmers for relief, and said, "the farmer will get what he wants only when organized strongly enough to demand it."

Is Jimmy Out?

(1932 Reports Syndicate)

BISHOP, Cal., Sept. 3—Away up here in the mountains we got news last night by Indian runners that "Little Big Chief" Mayor Walker had resigned. How long is New York going to put up with Mayor Walker now resigned, and what is next? They can't tell from 240 miles.

"Democratic Tom" just tells me that "Alf" Traylor is probably assassinated. I would like to add a few of my friends, as matter stands now.

If any have any arrows, old muskets or scrap iron, to please send bills to Adam G. Gaffey of Fort Worth, Tex. It's either a patriotic cause, the kind Gaffey stayed clear of politics, but the summer heat got him, and he started to actively campaign against "Jim" Ferguson.

One hundred and twenty-odd men people in the country said to please put "Jim" to stand against with it would be like walking up rough with Gene Tunney. He said Custer any commissions you can.

Yours,

Will Rogers

WHITE MAKES PLEA FOR ROAD WORKERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 3—Governor George White appealed to business men, labor, not to grandstand the wages of persons who have been given state road work as unemployment relief, asking them instead to try to work out with the public commission, committees and engineers some arrangements whereby part of their wages may be applied on debts without court action.

The governor said he was making the plea because in some instances the wages received by men on the state roads are being used to pay debts, and that the state cannot collect the money from the men because it cannot garnishee their wages.

BEATS DON IN THRILLING DASH

Drives Craft to Victory Over British Challenger for Harmsworth Trophy.

CONDITIONS CUT SPEED

Choppy Waters Hold Craft to 76-Miles-an-Hour Average.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 3—In one of the most thrilling demonstrations of speed and powerboat piloting, Gar Wood, American defender, after trailing at the start, cut loose with his Miss America X today to win the first heat of the Harmsworth trophy race from Kaye Don, British challenger.

So slow was Wood's craft in the first four laps of the 36-mile course that it seemed he could not get the four 12 cylinder motors to produce their maximum power. Seemingly, however, he was merely conserving his boat, for he opened up at the end of the fourth time around the course and crossed the line to start the final lap only a few boat lengths behind Don's white-hulled Miss England III.

At the end of the race, Wood said: "I ran the race exactly as I planned it; I am very happy and I hope to win again Monday."

Don Non-Committal

Kaye Don went to the boat wall without making a statement. His craft was riding low at the stern and had shipped considerable water, but he did not know the cause.

Asked why the boat appeared so low, Don replied:

"We began taking water. I don't know how. I don't think we sprung a leak, and I don't think we shipped all the water we took on board. How it got there I don't know. That is what we will have to find out today."

Despite Wood's victory, which at the finish showed a margin of nearly two miles, Miss England III turned up the fastest lap, circling the course the first time around at a speed of 80.685 statute miles an hour. Wood's fastest lap was at a speed of 67.367 miles an hour, on his second time around.

The average speed for the 36-mile heat was Miss America X 76.014; Miss England III 71.365. This was considerably slower than last year's best average, which Kaye Don set in Miss England II, at 69.915 miles an hour.

Conditions Are Poor

The race was run under probably the most unsatisfactory conditions ever prevailing for a similar event. Rain that began early in the morning continued intermittently, ceasing just long enough to permit the regatta committee to get the two hydroplanes underway at 7 p. m. after a 90 minute postponement.

By this time a sharp wind had blown up off Lake St. Clair and kicked up white caps that caused the two boats to bounce considerably and the rain, coming again in the fourth lap, contributed poor visibility to the pilot's troubles.

Nevertheless, both boats performed splendidly.

Ohio Takes Early Lead

Taking no chances on another premature start, both Don and Wood held back at the start. About a minute before the starting gun, both opened up, to come roaring down the starting line only a few seconds after the gun. Don was 15 seconds behind and Wood 20. The English boat shot into an immediate lead. At the end of the first lap it was half a mile ahead. Finishing the second and third laps it seemed that only a mishap could deprive it of victory. Approaching the finish of the fourth lap, however, Wood had all but overtaken Don. A few yards more and he shot into the lead. At the finish gun he was nearly two miles in front of the British challenger.

The pair failed to disentangle entirely themselves of opponents. They lined the three of the contestants.

The second heat will be run over the same course Monday morning and the third, if necessary, on Tuesday.

BUYING WAVE HELPS WHEAT

Wheat Opens Slightly Higher and Holds Close to Initial Figures.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—Commission houses bought wheat on a broad scale at the start of trading today, influenced by the sharp upward trend in stocks and cotton after yesterday's grain market closed. Profit taking checked the advance about ¼ cent under the week's high level, but buying became heavy again after a minor setback. Wheat started ¼ to 1 cent above yesterday's finish and held close to the initial figures. Corn opened ¼@¾ higher and later prices showed little change.

Wheat held within a narrow range of about ¼ cent a bushel most of the morning, selling pressure increasing on the bulges but with good support developing on minor setbacks. Reports of probable frost in most of the northwestern wheat belt states had little or no apparent effect on the market.

The French wheat crop for 1932 was officially estimated at 352,000,000 bushels, 12,000,000 bushels greater than the average home requirements, and 62,000,000 more than the 1932 crop. Russian dispatches said that foreign correspondents and writers had been placed on a food ration allowance in that country. Traders here interpreted this to mean that Russia faces a serious food shortage, and probably would not figure prominently in the wheat export trade this year. Corn and oats were generally steady.

Provisions were firmer.

"NEVER SELL AMERICA SHORT"

So said the late J. Pierpont Morgan. He always believed in it, and it always proved true.

July 3, 1914, the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., in its "Statistical Abstract of the United States" for 1913, said:

"Temporary recessions have frequently marked the course of American commerce but the tendency is ever higher."

That also has proved true.

Do You Know That.

America's mutual savings bank deposits are $1,233,000,000 higher than they were at the peak of the boom three years ago."

That currency in circulation aggregates $5,464,000,000 or $700,000,000 more than in the boom."

That the present income of the American people conservatively exceeds one thousand million dollars a week." That the American nation has more gold than any country on earth."

These are a few of the headlining facts that tell us that the constant "Upward Tendency" is still at work. They should tell every American very plainly.

NEW CROSLEY RADIO MODELS ON DISPLAY

Many Innovations Feature Sets for Home and Automobile.

Four classes of new A. C. tubes are used in the new Crosley radio receivers with the single exception of the New Crosley PUP. First of the New Crosley PUP. First there are the —56, —57, and —58 type tubes, smaller in size and requiring less heater current, but better amplifiers and detectors than the old type tubes. The —56 has half again the amplification factor of the old —27, while in the —57 and —58 this factor is more than double that of the tubes which they replace. These last two are pentodes, with all three grids brought out to terminals, making them applicable in many new and varied circuits.

In the second group are the new heater pentodes—the types —41 and —42, which eliminate former difficulties due to filament hum and deliver more power output than the old type tubes.

A new comprehensive showing of new Crosley 1932-1933 Radio Receiving sets is being made at the new Marion Electric and Furniture Co. store.

In the electric series are featured 8, 9 and 10 tube sets ranging in price from $39.95 to $69.50 complete with tubes, tax paid. The 10 tube sets combine short and long wave features making possible the reception of foreign broadcasts, police calls and many other interesting and unusual things which travel in the short wave bands.

Having been in the radio business for the past eleven years the Marion Electric & Furniture company has made an intensive study of the major problems of servicing an installation. This expert knowledge becomes a greater asset in the installation of the "Crosley Romeo" auto radio which is installed and tax paid for the exceptionally low price of $49.95. This includes 3 batteries, 3 spark plug suppressors and two Crosley High temperature type eliminators.

Third, there is a brand new type tube, a double grid triode, especially designed to operate in the new push-push, class B amplifier circuit. Two of the new type —46 tubes will deliver over 25 watts output and thus are capable of handling, without overloading, the peaks of a musical program which run up to high power levels even though the average volume of the sound is comparatively low.

These tubes require but little plate current for low output but must have a heavy supply for the loud bursts.

Enlarged Space Enables Local Store To Better Serve Patrons; Easy Washers, Crosley Radios Among Popular Items Handled

With the occupancy of its new quarters in the basement of the Uhler-Phillips building, the Marion Electric and Furniture company has enlarged many departments—foremost among which is the "Easy" washer department.

The new "Easy" which is being featured is truly a modern wonder. No more tedious drudgery for the housewife—no more handwringing. Clothes are washed and damp dried—thereby saving ironing time and labor as the clothes are whirled dry without squeezing or wringing, so there are no deep set wrinkles to iron out.

Probably the first appeal of this sensational new "Easy" washer is its absolute personal safety. It has no revolving wringers—no exposed moving parts.

It saves washing time—saves rinsing time—reduces line drying time—saves ironing time—saves mending time—sounds miraculous, doesn't it? The Marion Electric & Furniture company invites you to see this new model.

Big Value at Low Cost

In addition to the new labor saving damp dryer model, "Easy" offers two wringer type models, both recognized for their sturdy construction and assured long service.

There is also a new enlarged furniture department featuring moderately priced furniture for every room in the home. The new Crosley 1932-1933 series of radio receivers is featured in the radio department.

In addition there is a department devoted to the sale of used radios—furniture, washers, sweepers, etc.—offering many good worthwhile buys.

WHEN IVAN the Terrible made one of his trips in Russia to Nijni Novgorod for instance where he murdered so many butchering women including nuns in his process of making one single nation out of Russia travel was slow

When Peter the Great who Europeanized Russia by bringing in engineers merchants and scientists from western Europe dragged from their graves those that had plotted against him he loaded their frightful corpses on sleds drawn by swine That was slow transportation

If they lived today those ancient czars would be amazed at Russia's speed The soviet government described sometimes by our best minds as utterly incapable has established thirty five thousand miles of air routes It would have taken Peter the Great many weeks to travel from Moscow to Irkutsk A fast train could travel the distance in five and one half days Modern Russian officials make the journey by airplane in thirty six hours It should interest this government to know that Russia is second only to the United States in air line mileage and will probably soon surpass us

Four "I's" of Labor

A SERMONETTE

By REV H C AHRENS pastor, Salem Evangelical Church

"Seeing the multitudes"—Matthew 5 1

Theodore Roosevelt as a child was nicknamed Four Eyes because he wore glasses Roosevelt maintained that he also saw more than others He got a broad vision

A broader vision apparently is necessary for a better understanding of present day labor conditions The following four Is may prove helpful

Information—First hand information If every wealthy person would spend some time in or around old dilapidated shacks and observe how some people actually live and suffer surely more would be done to avoid future depressions On the other hand if many employes only knew the worries of those employers who do feel with them they would take a different attitude toward capital The average person needs more information concerning his fellowman to get the broader vision which Jesus had as he observed the multitude

Intercession The intercessor pleads and prays for the cause of others Abraham pleaded for Lot Jesus prayed that they may be one even as we are one Take others to God in prayer and watch your vision grow

Interest—Why are you interested in labor? For selfish reasons or to make this world a better place in which to live? Jesus chose the latter reason Jesus advocated and practiced the Golden Rule God is interested in all people His children can do no less

Individual Service— I came not to be ministered unto but to minister said Jesus This was the Lincoln way He was a model American It will make models of others

WHEELER-WOLSEY IN "HOLD 'EM JAIL" TO OPEN HERE SUNDAY

Undoubtedly suggested by the widely-publicized Sing Sing prison football game of last year, the Wheeler-Woolsey picture, "Hold 'Em Jail," will show at the Palace Sunday and Monday.

Wheeler and Woolsey patched up their little difficulties after each found he couldn't make a go doing a "single" act, and now the critics are all on the air over their latest bit of tomfoolery.

For the first time in several years, attractive little Frances Dee isn't their leading woman. Betty Grable carries the romantic lead, but Edna Mae Oliver is ahead of her. Miss Oliver is the warden's austere but ticklish sister, who has her moments of sentiment.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON PICTURE AT OHIO

What goes on in the mind of a condemned man in the few seconds between the time he sits in the electric chair and the current is turned on? A person is believed to live his life over again in the few seconds before he meets a violent death, and Edna M. Oliver that's the plot of "Two Seconds," the Edward G. Robinson starring picture which will show three days at the Ohio, beginning Sunday.

In support of Robinson are Preston Foster, Vivienne Osborne, J. Carroll Naish, Guy Kibbee, Adrienne Dore and others. The story was written by Lester Elliott and directed by Mervyn LeRoy. LeRoy, according to Hollywood gossip, will marry Ginger Rogers as soon as his wife is granted a divorce.

L. J. O'Conner who plays the role of captain of the prison guards in the death-house sequence of the picture, was prison guard at San Quentin, California state prison, for four years.

INDEPENDENT PICTURE AT MARION TWO DAYS

"The Stoker," produced by an independent company, will open Sunday at the Marion for two days. The most important thing about "The Stoker" is that it brings back Monte Blue, matinee idol of other years.

The cast includes Dorothy Burgess, Noah Beery, Richard Tucker and Natalie Moorhead, one of the smoothest of the blond "menaces" on the screen. "The Stoker" is a Peter B. Kyne story.

TWO GOOD FEATURES ON STATE PROGRAM

"After Tomorrow," a genuinely sweet love story featuring Charles Farrell and Marian Nixon, and "When a Feller Needs a Friend," the Jackie Cooper-Chic Sale story, will show Sunday and Monday at the State.

Both pictures are good entertainment for the entire family.

Just Things

BY EDNA B. DUTTON

Rewards

THE old wheeze about all things coming to those with patience enough to hold on, gets rather threadbare at times but it tells the truth over and anon, and here's proof of the pudding. This department finally got to the big state fair. True, we didn't start early in the morning, take enough grub for dinner and supper and perhaps a snack to piece on, enroute home, but then they don't do that any more. And we just went to the night fair, but that was an eyeful. A good-sized book might hold a description of all that we saw, and suffice to say we have conversation for the next blue moon, but there are folks who, hearing our account of the jaunt would opine that we hadn't seen anything.

* * *

Exhibitors

WE know now why the growth and popularity of 4-H clubs throughout the country. After a tour of the stockbarns we visited a young exhibitor, above whose sheep pens dangled a flock of ribbons proclaiming him winner of a number of prizes, in his temporary hotel room. He might have had a room in some nearby residence or taken one of the rooms in the building but he preferred to occupy his "trailer" which had been outfitted as parlor, bedroom and bath. It must have been comfortable for at no time did he lack for company and some even spent the night. The hour was about 10 p. m. and he told us he arose "around 7." His sheep were to be auctioned off the next day and this young business man of 12 was staying right on the job for that and on to the end of the fair. This wasn't his first state fair exhibition, in fact he was an old timer, and he chose this instead of a week at camp.

THE judging was in progress when we reached the dog pens and did pandemonium reign! As usual it was the little fellows who were raising the row while those handsome Irish setters and German police dogs looked on with a dignified air which proved their mettle. Some of the owners were as much affutter as the canines and above the din came the voices of a family, whose dogs evidently had garnered a ribbon or two, to say the least. An ultimatum, delivered in a feminine voice of positive quality proclaimed that there was nothing to do but pack everybody and everything in the car and get started. This brought a mumbled protest from a self-reliant looking male of the species but it was lost in the snappy retort to the effect that he was wasting his words in that it wouldn't be "half as hard on him as it would be on the dogs."

My Beauty Hint

BY CLAUDETTE COLBERT

MY BEAUTY hint has to do with the eyebrows. I think every woman should have as part of her beauty equipment a soft lead pencil and a small, stiff-bristled brush.

I use both regularly and believe they improve the looks of my eyebrows very much. I apply the brush twice daily to keep my brows trained into their natural arch and to put straying hairs in place.

I use the pencil to lengthen my brows, applying it very carefully. After that I draw my finger over the brow as a finishing touch.

A Record of Good Citizenship.

In the death of A. C. Edmondson, Marion has suffered the most serious loss that can befall any community—that which comes from the departure of a good and wise citizen.

"Gus" Edmondson was that in full measure. Always interested in the progress and welfare of the city where he lived many years and achieved success, his business acumen and sound judgment in all matters were invariably a valuable help in public service and civic affairs. When important problems concerning Marion were pending, his counsel and advice were always logical and dependable. His judgment in community matters was amazingly sound and sensible, just as it was in private business and finance.

He had the fortunate faculty, by no means possessed by the majority of men, of weighing and appraising problems and proposals with a view to the future as well as consideration of the present. His analytical and comprehensive sense of reasoning enabled him almost instantly to measure the favorable and unfavorable points of any question and to visualize probable effects and results.

Along with his keen and almost unfailing business sense he was endowed with an ever present wealth of wit and humor that provided a predominant note of cheer in all his contacts with other persons. This ability to brighten and enliven conversation and to raise a laugh where gloom and discouragement seemed to be threatening often served as a needed stimulant in conferences over matters concerning Marion's welfare.

Needless to say, this characteristic also had much to do with making him a congenial and popular companion and associate in social contacts as well as in business.

His interest in community affairs seldom was expressed in public utterances or in acceptance of leadership posts bearing titles. He preferred to serve in the background, helping map out the course, for achievement and progress and contributing to the consummation of plans through earnest effort and substantial support. In this way, he filled an important and constructive role in helping Marion grow and improve during the last half century.

Harvest Month.

If September were to bear a descriptive title in the United States, it should be designated as "the harvest month." Actually, harvesting is pretty well over by the end of August, except corn cutting, which goes just right somehow with September weather. But the phrase fits, nevertheless.

"The harvest month" suggests ripeness—the maturity of the productive season—and that is what September deserves. There's nothing in the least exciting about it, such as the sounds and smells that send the blood racing in May. But exceptions have to be made to that statement, too. Fall—meaning all of September and a little of October—is listed as the favorite season by many who claim to know all about the exhilaration of spring.

One wonders, in fact, if September wouldn't be a strong competitor for the most popular month if it didn't suggest the coming of winter so strongly. It is the victim of bad company; October's "bright blue weather" has a nasty habit of changing suddenly into driving rainstorms which have anything but a soothing effect on those who would flee forever before the chilly clutch of winter.

It is during September that some temperatures which arouse bodies made sluggish by summer heat to the much-boasted activity of temperate zones. September this year, as always, has its work cut out; never was the sun brighter or the heat more intense than during the lingering departure of August. It will take many full cuttings of the silvery haze of early autumn to clothe languid spirits in the costumes of ambition again. But, in a setting of ripened grapes, golden corn, gleaming pumpkins and children shouting on their way to school it will be done. September never fails to fulfill its important destiny in nature's scheme.

A Lot of Fun.

Some one asked Gar Wood the other day how much it had cost him to develop the line of famous Miss America speedboats with which he has roared to so many victories. He replied that he didn't know, but that it was something more than a million dollars. "It's been a lot of fun," was his ready answer.

Speedboating and cost sheets don't go well together, as a matter of fact, whether in the hands of designers or owners. Gar Wood may be one of the few who can say they have succeeded in combining business with pleasure; there are not many others. His hobby stands close to horse racing in the category of pure sport.

He has built this country's fastest boats, from the time when 60 miles an hour was a daredevil speed, to 1922, when achievement is represented by something well over 100 miles. His newest boat, Miss America X, powered with four 12-cylinder engines, is the fastest and most powerful craft ever designed by designer. With horsepower estimated at 4,000 it should give Driver Wood all the "fun" he has been seeking.

Today, on the same course at Detroit where he raced Kaye Don's Miss England II last year, he will start his seventh defense of the Harmsworth cup, a prize which he has held for the United States, single-handed, since 1920. Once more the challenger will be Don, this time in the third boat of a Miss England series which promises to become as long as the Miss America series. The contest will be an extension of last year's match, when both drivers were disqualified in an unfortunate incident which caused Mr. Wood to indulge himself in a regrettable display of tactlessness.

The Englishman holds the world's speed record of 119.81 miles an hour over a straight course. He has a good boat, but no better than the powerful craft which represents the climax of the defenders achievement. A nation wishes both drivers all the luck that will be needed to give both of them "a lot of fun" in their spectacular endeavors.

Too Poor To Fight.

Germany's threat to withdraw from the League of Nations disarmament conference unless her demands for equality are met can mean but a single thing. The contract by which the loser in the World war agreed to disarm, if the victors disarmed also, will be broken. France, to which the German threat is made, will not yield.

The contract, as far as Germany is concerned, is already broken. Sealed in bitterness at Versailles, it represented the most crushing humiliation possible—humiliation which overdid itself, because of the resentment it created. By it Germany was stripped of virtually all her extensive military power, a sacrifice scarcely made acceptable in the original conception by the Allies' promise that they, too, would disarm.

Germany had not the escape of free choice from so radical a decision. Her fate was entirely in the hands of the victors, who have disregarded both the spirit and fact of the agreement they made. There has been no disarmament in the world since the close of the World war, except in Germany. Helpless at first, the Germans have gained ground in their struggle for recovery. They will take unreasonable orders no longer.

The very facts of their partial recovery and the threats of rearmament that thunder from the restless masses are viewed by the French as further cause for maintaining their security at any cost. No sooner is Germany's threat published than there are rumors of a Franco-British entente. The dream of maintaining peace in Europe by disarmament is translated now, a decade later, in terms of armament again. Once more the balance of power returns to do what bad faith prevented the guaranties of disarmament from doing.

Ironically, the very conditions which have caused every nation to deplore the crushing burden of war and preparations for war and which are, in large part, the result of the terrific waste of the World war, lie at the bottom of the hatred which makes it impossible for Europe to cooperate for the common good of its constituent parts. Adversity has made competition intense; it has aroused the temper of the masses. Nations may be too poor to fight, but they are never too poor to hate.

Prolonged hate will draw great nations into war again as surely as it draws neighbors into conflict. As assurance that there can be no outbreak in the immediate future the world has nothing but realization of its own poverty. As assurance that the outbreak will be postponed indefinitely it has only the disarmament conference, which Germany now threatens to make ineffectual by withdrawing from it. Will the millions who have rejected war as an instrument to adjust differences between nations be forced to swallow their convictions because international hatred is too strong to be held in check by reason?

Comment of the Press

EMOTION IN BUSINESS.

If economics were simply the actions and reactions of mechanized individuals in a world demisted solely by a profit motive it might lend itself better to statistical and scientific treatment. But in practice economic theorists often have made bad guesses, because they failed to take account of the purely emotional factors involved in business.

Men and women do not necessarily buy where goods are cheapest. They do not necessarily buy when prices are lowest. They do not work harder merely because they could make a little more money. They do not stop working when they have more money than they need. They do not drive the hardest bargains they can.

On the contrary, they are just as irrational, just as prejudiced, just as emotional in their business transactions as in other spheres of life. This not only prevents economics from being a precise science, but it gives us a basis on which to explain some of the wild caperings of business activity.

Not merely the mechanics of price change and credit expansion, but the surging hopes of millions of people drove prices to high peaks in 1929. Not merely the profit system and the mechanics of the security markets, but the innate American love of risk taking, explain how stocks soared to unimaginable levels.

Correspondingly, the depth of our current depression is partly explained by the very human tendency to exaggerate our woes and paint the future in gloomy colors. Hoarding is just as human and just as futile today as were the reckless purchase of securities a few years ago.

The upturn business has experienced in recent weeks is not to be explained wholly by resounding terms of finance and technicalities of security trading. It represents in large measure the emotions of men—their hopes for a better day, their willingness to run risks in order to have a stake in America tomorrow. From this spiritual quality in the American people, just as much as from tangible measures of reconstruction, business recovery is arising. When we pretend that business is a cold and unemotional process of trade we deny the facts that stare us in the face.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Progress in War on "White Plague."

It was not long ago that consumption, or tuberculosis, was a terribly dreaded disease. Everyone feared the "white plague," which threatened every household.

Although tuberculosis is still regarded as one of mankind's greatest enemies, it is not feared as it used to be. To what do we owe this change of feeling?

Fifty years ago the germ of consumption, the "tubercle bacillus," was discovered. This marked the beginning of a new era in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis. Shortly after this remarkable discovery came the invention of the X-ray machine. This instrument enabled physicians to observe the early signs of tuberculosis of the chest and other parts of the body.

Better understanding of the importance of good food and proper standards of living, aided further in the prevention of this disease. With the advancements made in hygiene, the recognition of the necessity of fresh air, sunlight and rest, the number of cases of tuberculosis gradually decreased. As our knowledge increases, it is hoped that eventually the disease will disappear.

One of the greatest contributions to the control of tuberculosis is the rapid advance made in surgery. When the disease is confined to one lung, great benefit can be obtained by chest surgery. By means of a minor operation, a condition known as artificial pneumothorax is produced. That is, air is introduced into the chest cavity which contains the lung.

Sufficient air is forced in to collapse the involved lung. This closes the cavities, preventing the accumulation of pus and germs and stops the spread of the germs of tuberculosis to other portions of the lung and distant parts of the body.

In more advanced cases, where the lung has grown fast to the chest wall, it may be necessary to have a more extensive operation. In such cases parts of the ribs may be removed. This operation is known as "thoracoplasty" and, in many instances, the results obtained have been extremely beneficial.

Persons afflicted with tuberculosis are no longer doomed to an inevitable fate. When the disease is recognized in its early stages, cure is possible. In more advanced cases, relief and comfort may be obtained over a period of many years. It is neglect of the disease that is dangerous. It is dangerous both for the afflicted person himself and for those who come in contact with him.

Sufferers from tuberculosis who are at all careless are a great menace to the young. Children should not come in contact with these individuals.

At some time or other every one of us becomes infected with the germs of tuberculosis. But it is only when there is an excessive number of germs in the body, or when the resistance of the body is poor, that tuberculosis takes root, spreads and becomes active. For this reason children should never be brought in contact with sufferers from tuberculosis.—Copyright, 1922, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A Washington Daybook

BY HERBERT PLUMMER.

Washington, Sept. 2—It was a grim and determined group of business and industrial leaders who gathered in Washington to attend President Hoover's national economic conference.

In that new and magnificent room in the department of commerce building where they drafted a program looking to the stimulation of business activity and employment, an atmosphere of seriousness seemed to prevail at all times.

Doors were even locked at one time, adding to that general effect. Newsmen were told beforehand that they could take their choice—enter and stay until the doors were unlocked or remain outside.

* * *

Little humor showed itself in the remarks of the various speakers. There was just no place for it. The job before them was too serious, too tremendous for any attempt at levity.

That is, until that lanky and friendly New Yorker—Owen D. Young—arose to speak.

Young had been telling the conference that the prime purpose of the coordinated drive of business and government was to make more jobs. He also had been deploring and warning against pessimism so general among the American people toward the economic ills of their country.

* * *

In the midst of his talk, a twinkle appeared in his eyes.

"I can no better illustrate what I mean," he said, "than to tell you a story I heard recently.

"A man hard hit by business reverses met a friend of his one day and began to bemoan his plight.

"'I am so badly in debt,' he said. 'My debts worry me so.'

"'Come, come,' said the friend. 'Cheer up. It does not pay to be so depressed. Just imagine what you could do if you had all the money in the world.'

"'But my debts,' he moaned. 'My debts—they worry me so.'

"'But just what would you do,' the friend insisted, 'if you had all the money in the world?'

"He thought for a moment, then replied in an even more mournful fashion:

"'I'd apply it to my debts—so far as it would go.'"

RACE TRACK BILL OF 1904.

A bill was introduced in the general assembly of 1904 by Representative Chisholm of Cleveland that, in effect, would have legalized race-track gambling. It had passed both houses and was in the hands of the governor, Myron T. Herrick, newly armed with veto power.

At once, the executive was swamped with arguments pro and con. Friends of the bill claimed it had been passed with the tacit understanding that the governor would let it ride but enemies of the act clamored for a veto.

Finally, evidently respectful of the strength of the dry element which opposed the bill, the governor vetoed it.

But he was too late. Already, the drys, opposing the governor over another measure or two as well, were aligning against him. So, when the Democrats agreed on John M. Pattison, abundantly acceptable to the drys of both parties, Governor Herrick was retired at the end of his first term.

Daily Talk to Parents

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE

THINGS WE FORGET.

The average person remembers very little of what happened to him before he was 5 or 6. Such incidents as he does remember are usually curiously insignificant and rather colorless.

Yet it is known certainly that by the time a child has passed his fifth or sixth birthday he has lived through a number of deeply impressive experiences whose traces are clearly to be found in his adult character.

How is it that we forget all this, that no part of what affected us so vitally remains fixed in memory, while inconsequential happenings were retained?

The explanation lies in the fact that so much of what happened to the child in his first years is too unpleasant for him as a polite civilized adult to remember.

The child is naturally a selfish, untidy, unmannerly little being possessed of an indiscriminating appetite for pleasure and the desire to investigate everything. He is trained to cleanliness, to a respect for the proprieties and for property rights only with the greatest inner struggle.

Naturally the adult does not want to be reminded of the time when he was so different from the self that he now knows. He wants to believe that he was always as he is now, possessed of a complete set of manners and morals.

It is wholesome, however, for parents to remind themselves even if they can not remember it, of that dark past when they, too, were children, far from perfect even as their own children are now.

It will make them perhaps a little more sympathetic, a little less rigorous. It is much easier for a child to learn to be good when he is brought up by an adult who retains some inkling of the enormous task to which he is being held.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Sept. 2—Well, Herb Roth finally got me out in a canoe. Over the bounding waves. And I'll swap three bounds for a rocking chair on the back porch. So far, all I've done is sit here, stiff as an 1899 collar, trying to look as though I'm not scared simple.

I don't know whether I'm sitting fore or aft. I suppose it will be like me to take on an attack of hiccups. Hiccuping, in one of these frail hoodoos, is like smoking stogies in a powder factory. One big hiccup and you are floundering around, hanging and shrieking for help.

A fortune teller told me I would drown anyway. Maybe this is the day. I wish it could be put off awhile. I want to help the government all I can with my income taxes.

It occurs to me, it might be just as much fun near shore as away out here in the middle of the Hudson.

At best, canoeing is just canoeing. If I never canoe again, I have had more than my share. But I'll be nonchalant. Let one hand trail in the water. That's no good. Something like an eel might take hold. Headline: "Eel Bites Heel." One thing about these mosquitoes, they sing at their work.

It would be a joke if this thing drifted out to sea. Two men in a boat! Like anything it would be a joke. Herb is looking around as though he doesn't know where to go. I could give him an idea. If it was my boat I'd head for that clump of trees.

* * *

Clump, clump, clump, the canoe is coming. I'm a little light-headed, and I don't care for that look in his eyes. Maybe, he's suddenly sun struck. The sun is pretty strong, at that. He wants to know if I care to paddle. Who, me? No, I'll just sit here, sweetheart, and dream.

* * *

What's the fool up to now? He's going to take the waves of an Albany side-wheeler. Now, isn't that ducky? Ducky is the very word. He isn't satisfied just to canoe. He must fancy it up, and have us bobbing around like a cork in a typhoon. Flotsam and jetsam, that's what we are. I'll call him Flot for short. They are waving from the side-wheeler. I'd wave back but I'm not feeling any too spry. Anyway, to wave I'd have to let go a side of the boat.

* * *

Some one on board yells, "Toohoo!" It's Roth's pink sweater. I certainly don't look like a target for yoo-hoos. Take a glance at my broad shoulders. And look right through here—the thick jowls, firm neck. I'll yell, "Ahoy!" It sounds like a squeaking "Eee-ee!" That's because I'm a trifle upset, and, if we don't hit that wave right, we will be all the way upset. I couldn't sit home minding my business. No. Somebody must come along and drag me out here in the middle of the river to see how I take waves.

* * *

I can go to the store as well as the next fellow. Or I am pretty fair at sitting on a park bench, but as a wave-taker, I don't amount to shucks. Roth is grinning at me. All right, you baboon. But if this boat turns over and I get a lock hold around your neck, you sink with me. See what the boys in Davy Jones's locker will have. Maybe I'm getting out of my head. He took that itty-bitty wave all right at that. Maybe I'm just getting fussed up, as usual, about nothing. O, I am, am I? Well, that wave was a lollapalooza and I think it will be over soon. Watch for the bubbles.

* * *

Here comes the biggest of all! It's 15 feet high! Well, two, anyway, and he is taking it wrongside foremost or something. Switch the stiff ground there, idiot. I believe he has lost his paddle. Right plunk in the middle of the biggest wave of the day—likely the biggest of the week—and zip goes his paddle. No, he's holding it above his head. He's even laughing. Afloat with a maniac. She's going over. I'll probably come up just at the right spot to catch my head in the side-wheel. Now, she's righted. Saved. All is well. He's still laughing and saying it's fun. I say it's broccoli, and to the bad place with it.

* * *

He asks if I'm frightened. What a fool question. Did any one hear me holler? There is a touch of the Viking in all the McIntyres. Except Uncle Abner, he's more of a Norseman. Just old water dogs. Drop around to Niagara next week. If I get caught up in my work I may go over the Falls in a barrel, standing on one foot.—Copyright, 1922, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

Go to, my Daughter. The wine-cellar hath disappeared and the saloon is no more; but the speakeasy flourisheth as the green bay tree.

And the reasons for which a man "needeth a drink" are as plentiful and as varied as ever.

Behold, he taketh a drink when his heart is glad that he may "celebrate" his gladness with rejoicing.

And, when he is sorrowful and cast down, he taketh a drink in order that he may drown his sorrows and forget his troubles.

When he is merry and among his friends, he taketh a drink because he is a "good fellow" and wisheth not to appear a spoil-sport.

* * *

And when he is lonely and without friends, he taketh a drink to lift up his spirits and comfort his heart.

When he is down upon his luck and his pockets are empty, he taketh a drink to forget his poverty and to give him courage to face the world.

And when his coffers are full and the market goeth his way, he taketh a drink because he "can afford the best stuff—so why not?"

When he is weary and overworked, he taketh a drink to give him strength for his labors. And when he is idle and time hangeth upon his hands, he taketh a drink "because there is nothing else to do."

He taketh a drink, in order to avoid a cold in the head—and in order to cure a cold in the head.

He taketh a drink when a woman hath thrown him over, in order to "steady his nerves."

* * *

And he taketh another because a woman hath promised to marry him and he would commemorate his luck.

He taketh a drink because he is young and full of gayety and spirits—and because he is old and weak and needeth a stimulant.

Verily, verily, they that question why a man needeth a drink are as the leaves of the trees, innumerable, and every one of the "ready to serve." Selah!—Copyright, 1922, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Glimpses of the Past

It was Sunday, Sept. 3, 1922.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Schrock of Van Buren street.

Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Neidhart and son John Joseph and Mrs. Neidhart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kinley of Upper Sandusky, motored to Wheeling, W. Va., for a visit of several days.

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Parr of Latourette street entertained with a family dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Beckley and children of Farmland, Ind.

The eighty-fourth annual session of the Ohio Conference Evangelical association came to a close at Calvary church. Rev. A. F. Beery, who had been pastor of Greenwood church five years, was transferred to Calvary church in Akron. Rev. C. L. Allen of Calvary church, Marion, and Rev. C. W. Ruhlman of Bellefontaine Avenue Evangelical church, were returned to these pastorates.

Miss Abigail Fern Harriman, 37, died at her home on Pennsylvania avenue, following a two years' illness. She was a former teacher in Marion and Detroit, Mich., schools.

Michael Fetter, 82, lifelong resident of Marion county, died at his home east of Marion.

Miss Vinnie Hetzell of LaRue and Virgil Shepard of Toledo were married at the home of the bride by Rev. J. W. Horne, pastor of the LaRue M. E. church.

Miss Florence L. Colfesh and William W. Cagett, both of Marion, were married by Rev. C. L. Allen at Calvary Evangelical church parsonage.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Tuesday, Sept. 3, 1912.

Voters of Ohio adopted at out of 42 proposed amendments to the state constitution. Woman's suffrage was the only amendment that failed to receive indorsement, being defeated by a vote of 3-1. Newspaper reports said that as a result of the election, Ohio would have a constitution as radical as any state in the Union.

Armed guards were placed around the estate of John D. Rockefeller in New York as the result of threats of assassination and kidnaping having been received by Mr. Rockefeller and members of his family.

Mrs. William Hogan, 66, died suddenly of a heart attack at her home on Belmont street.

Miss Alice Hanley of North State street left for Cleveland to enroll as a student in the Villa Angela academy.

W. W. Durbin of Kenton was named as the Democratic nominee for congress by the party's Eighth district congressional committee meeting in Kenton. He took the place of John H. Wills of Marysville, who had been nominated in the May primaries but who withdrew to run for prosecuting attorney in Union county.

Leo Schoeche left for a two weeks' camping trip at Arcadia, Mich.

Miss Ella Wendler and William J. Evans, both of Marion, were married by Rev. G. M. Rourke at the First Presbyterian parsonage.

He turned to Nan, his ginger head on one side, his eyes snapping "Jervis is very romantic—but it's a secret vice—he considers it indelicate."

It was perhaps a minute later that Mr. Francis, loking round to catch the waiter's eye, saw something which distracted his attention. He gazed with frank interest at a table set against the wall on the far side of the room. Two people had just risen from it, a man and a woman. Mr. Francis gave his whole-hearted attention to the woman.

"Now that's what I call a looker!" he said.

The woman stood against the golden wall. She wore a dull gold dress that matched her hair It clung as closely as a dress can cling to a singularly perfect figure. It was so plain and so heavy as to give her the appearance of a statue—a golden statue set against a golden wall. Then, as she moved, the statue came alive The glowing white of her neck and arms, the brilliance of her eyes, took the light and enchanted it.

F. F.'s admiration rose to enthusiasm.

"Too marvelous!" he repeated. "Do you see her—over there against the wall?"

Jervis Weare had seen her 20 minutes ago. It was like Rosamund to be facing the music—he could still admire that in her. She was with Robert Leonard. Was she facing the music? Or had she perhaps doubted on meeting nobody who would know her? A bit of folly, that; for nowadays even August is not to be counted upon, since anyone may turn up from anywhere at any moment.

He smiled slightly as he glanced about the room. Already, as they came in, he had returned an interested bow from Mrs. Manning Temple. From where he was sitting he could see at least half a dozen people whom he knew—old James Mulroy, a very competent and industrious gossip; Janet Tetterley, his nearest neighbor and a far-away cousin on his mother's side; the Carters—Nonie Carter pop-eyed with interest; and Mrs. Mellifer, with Enid who was to have been one of Rosamund's bridesmaids

With a faintly sardonic gleam in his eyes he turned from Enid to watch Rosamund. She spoke smilingly over her shoulder to Leonard and moved clear of the table. He looked away from her to Nan She was sitting back in her chair, and she too was watching Rosamund Carew. Jervis looked at her, and, for the first time, really saw her.

It was as if Rosamund had flung him a challenge, and he must look to his weapons. From the first, Nan had been a weapon against Rosamund Now, in this public place, there came the first encounter.

He looked to see how his weapon would serve him, and was faintly startled. She was sitting back in her chair. A pretty turn of the neck and a graceful pose—that was what he saw first. And, directly upon that, he received the strongest impression of youth. Rosamund and he were nearly of an age, Rosamund a few months the elder.

Nan, sitting there, with her eyes wide, her lips a little apart, and a flush on her cheeks, had the air of a child. Rosamund was a beautiful woman. Nan had freshness and grace, a direct gaze, a young round chin, and on occasion a dimple. Her hands lay in her lap. The direct gaze was fixed with interest and admiration on Rosamund, but the interest and admiration were alike tinged with something else. Jervis did not know what the something was. It drew her brows together and put a faintly distressed curve upon her mouth.

He looked where she was gazing, and saw Rosamund and Robert coming towards them. Something inside him laughed—a hard, angry laugh. The challenge was to be pressed And how damnably clever! If he could be pricked into rudeness, Rosamund would most undoubtedly score She was counting on his quick and sudden temper.

Rosamund Carew came on with Robert Leonard at her shoulder. Nan's lips parted wistfully, her heart sank She was so very beautiful. Her hair went back in a smooth gold wave from her brow to the nape of her neck, where it broke into tiny curls, that were caught in a dull gold slide. She moved as if she knew how beautiful she was; her eyes held the certainty of it.

She stopped at the empty side of the table, touched it with a hand that wore one big sapphire, and sent a faintly smiling look across it.

"Well, Jervis?" she said.

All Excited Over Politics, but After Election We'll Wonder Why, Will Says

BY WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I see here and there. You know its been weeks since the Olympics finished, but for a couple or three weeks after it was over it felt out here like a kind of an old Ghost Town. We had gotten so used to going to the Stadium every day, and we had seen the Athletes so often, and the thing kinder got next to you.

Well one of the last to leave was some of the Japanese, and among them was little Nichi Baron Nichi he is the one that won the high jumps with his horse. He was just about the most popular little rascal that was here. They say he is tremendously rich in his own Country but no one knew that till after the games were over. He was just "Another" Japanese cavalry officer to everybody

Japs Win Popularity

They made a lot of friends the Japanese did over here. That Shanghai and Manchurian thing had just about put em in the dog house as far as we were concerned, but they acted so fine and were such good sports that they went away in the good graces of everyone. Course they hadent any more than got on the boat till we read in the papers that Japan was taking Jehol. Jehol is a province in China. Its a kind of a "Buffer" province. It lays between Manchuria and China property, and the Japanese claim that they have to have it as it allows the Chinese to be too near to their operations in Manchuria. They was messing around about it when I was over there away last fall. They are always going to have a lot of trouble over there, but its a long way from our home. I sure wish our State Department was as far away from things as our folks are.

Fussed Over Politics

Politics is just a boiling trying to tell. I sit around and try to keep my ear to the ground. Nothing between it but my pillow, but I cant get heads or tails out of whats going to happen Everybody on both sides if you talk to em will be so confident, that it makes you ashamed of how little you know yourself. They just up and tell you to practically a thousand votes, by just how many each side will win by.

Now I get this news from a fellow the other day and he is a man that should have some idea for he is doing nothing but just traveling around taking "Hearings" on public opinion "Have been since I saw you at the Convention in Chicago in every city east of there, so have a pretty good idea of what will happen in the Fall. First of all I think we will get a Democratic Governor in Maine. Moses I think will be defeated in New Hampshire. Will get the Democratic Governor in Indiana but will lose the Senate to Watson Roosevelt will get Ohio and Michigan by slim majorityes but will lose both of them to Republican governors. The Far South dont even know Hoover is running. If he gets a vote south of the Mason and Dixon line it will be some stray kin folks of his Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and Kentucky will all go for Roosevelt. Democrats haven't got a chance in Pennsylvania, but will take an even bet that they get Maine and Vermont. I have done fifteen east and midwest states, and start off into the Northwest, and west right away."

Can't Always Tell

Now you have it. He tries every way he can to get the opinions, He just holds a clinic over every voter, But a vote is a funny thing.

But the whole thing gives everybody something to gab about. What we do, what we say, what we think don't mean much. Just glide along with em, give a lot of em a job. One man could do what ten of them do. There could be a quarter or third as many Congressmen or Senators, and we would pick better ones then. But its the system that we have always used, and there is no use getting all overcome with preoperation over it. We get along pretty good, and things kinder run themselves anyhow. Most of our improvements are so big they can't carry em off, and our laws we have so many anyhow that a couple of hundred passed every session don't mean much to us.

Our Congress is just like an old stray she cat. She will drag in with so many kittens just when you dont want em, but you tolerate her, and know that she cant help it. Well thats about the way we feel about our two governing Bodies. They can just cause us so much annoyance each year, and the only time we really get sore at em is when they do come with an extra big "Litter."

In Favor of Life Jobs

It don't make much difference who is in or who is out, they both draw the same salary. I have always claimed that they should be elected for life. The Supreme Court is our most respected gang, so it might work in our other branches. Now take this year for instance what can they do towards helping the Country? Nothing. They have all got to be trying to get back in

This is the year when they really work, but its for themselves and you cant blame em They have had a taste of it and they like it. There is something about holding office that must just get right next to em. And they are seldom ever any good any more for anything else. But they are all likable cusses. You cant help but like em, and they are always smarter than the people that elect em. So our election every four years is just what we need We dont know what we need it for but its for something if its only to get one half of our folks sore at the other half every four years.

We are all excited now. Six months from now we will look back and wonder why. Politics is just a custom, and has nothing whatever to do with civilization.

The Summons To Meet Lee Chow Compels Madge, After All, To Break Her Promise to Dicky That She Would Not Leave the Hotel.

LEE CHOW at the school! Lee Chow, who even Hugh Grantland had feared was a captive in the hands of the Chinese bandits. Did that mean—? But I had no time for speculation, indeed must put all semblance of it aside. Lillian must suspect nothing of the Chinese complication that had entered into the problem of rescuing the girls, and Dr. Barnes' voice sounded again, this time with a faintly imperative note.

"The connection is bad, I am afraid," he said "I did not get your reply."

"I shall be over as soon as possible," I answered.

"Please forgive my seeming insistence, but could you give me any idea of what time that means? Mr. Lee, it seems, has an urgent errand elsewhere, but he is anxious to show you some of his lovely curios before he goes."

"I Shall Be There"

I doffed a mental beret to Dr Barnes. There must be vital necessity for my going to Lee Chow immediately, yet with meticulous care he was camouflaging that necessity so that only I would understand. If publicity and the ugly tongues of gossip circled his beloved school and the missing girls with flame, it would not be the fault of this wise and resourceful head master of Whitney Hall

"I shall be there in less than 10 minutes," I said quickly. "Good-bye."

Lillian was gripping my shoulder almost before I had hung up the receiver.

"What is it?" she demanded

"Dr. Barnes says a Mr. Lee is at the school and wishes me to look at some curios as soon as possible, as he has an urgent errand elsewhere," I repeated quickly. "Of course that means Lee Chow, so let me get my things."

A Frenzied Brother

Her hand fell from my arm and she stood silent for the few seconds it took me to throw on a small hat, shrug into my motor coat and catch up my purse. But she barred the door as I came toward it, and spoke quickly, warningly."

"Have you forgotten that promise to Dicky?"

"Not for an instant," I told her. "But before his call, the one thing at stake was the comfort of the girls of having a woman with them when they were rescued. Lee Chow, for all we know, may bring information which might well mean success or failure to the expedition, life or death to the girls.

"No promise in the world could stand in the face of that possibility. If I were disabled and there was no one else, you would have to leave Helena, ill as she is, and go to the school."

"Perhaps I ought to go, anyway," she said doubtfully, but I put out my hand and swung her aside.

"You know Dr. Barnes doesn't want you to be seen at the school, when they have given out that Marion and Carolyn have gone home," I said. "I'll bet you know the second I have anything worth telling you."

Mary's door was ajar, and th came through it, dressed for the street, as I neared it.

"I heard the telephone ringing in your room," she said. "and I thought I'd better get ready to play wire-haired fox-terrier again. They're the best watch dogs, aren't they?"

"I'm so glad to have you along."

I said forcing my voice to cordiality, for my resentment at the promise Dicky had exacted from her, to accompany me everywhere, must not be extended to this warm-hearted child. Where's Noel?"

I expected to hear her say, "Down-stairs," but instead her voice changed subtly, and I heard the echo of fear in her answer:

"He and his father are with Uncle Harry and the rest. Noel left a note for me, saying so."

I could guess what else of affectionate farewell that note had contained, but I made no comment, only hurried with her out to the car, and thence at the greatest speed possible to the school.

Mrs. Barnes was waiting for us at the side entrance, and took us directly into Dr. Barnes' private study, where her husband and Lee Chow rose at our entrance.

That Lee Chow had made certain arrangements before my arrival I knew when, after the briefest of salutations, Dr. Barnes addressed his wife.

"Suppose, my dear, that we take Miss Mary into your private sitting room for a few minutes. Just knock upon the door Mrs. Graham) if you want us."

They were gone upon the word, and Lee Chow and I were left facing each other. I was breathless with suspense, and I guessed that behind his oriental composure there lurked similar excitement. He wasted no time in the usual conversational amenities of his race, but adopting the brusque mannerism of Hugh Grantland, with whom he had been associated so long, he said quickly.

"Please tell me everything that has happened since yesterday. I have been unable to get in touch with you for that interval."

Yanks Lose to Nats, 7-1, but Tie Record for Scoring

THREE-GAME SOFTBALL TOURNEY SCHEDULED HERE MONDAY

NEW YORK SLUGGERS SCORE ONE IN NINTH TO ESCAPE SHUTOUT

McCarthymen Out for New Mark in Washington Finale Today.

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees today had the opportunity to prove themselves the most consistent scoring machine in the history of organized baseball.

If Joe McCarthy's sluggers put across a single run in today's final tussle with Washington at Yankee stadium, they will eclipse the existing record of 132 consecutive games without a shutout set by the Philadelphia and Boston clubs of the National league in 1894.

They equalled the old mark yesterday, even while they were losing to the Senators, 7 to 1. For eight innings big Firpo Marberry turned them back monotonously, yielding only four hits but in the ninth Babe Ruth drew a pass and Lou Gehrig crashed a triple. The defeat reduced the Yanks' lead over the Athletics to 9½ games.

Jimmie Foxx continued his pursuit of the Babe's home run record, knocking No. 49 as the Athletics enjoyed a field day at the expense of Boston, 7 to 2, and 15 to 0.

In the only other American league game, the St. Louis Browns took a tight one from Chicago, 3 to 2. George Blaeholder getting the better of Ted Lyons in a pitching duel.

Continuing their burning pace at the head of the National league, the Chicago Cubs chalked up their thirteenth straight victory over the St. Louis Cardinals, 8 to 5.

The Pittsburgh Pirates made it six victories in a row by beating Cincinnati, 2 to 1.

MARION GRAYS TO PLAY DOUBLE BILL.

The Marion Merchant Grays have added another opponent for Labor day and will play a double header at the Shovel athletic field on Uncapher Avenue. The Marion Grays will play the Oakland All-Stars and Lima Grays, the first game starting at 2 p. m.

MARION HORSE WINS STATE FAIR RACE

Calvin May, owned by C. E. Deyoe of Marion, romped home the victor yesterday in the mile and a half handicap race at the Ohio state fair. Wayne Smart of Newark was piloting the Marion horse. Time for the race was 2:19⅘. Calvin May started the race with a handicap of 180 feet but displayed a great burst of speed to overtake the field.

YANK GOLFERS AGAIN RETAIN WALKER CUP

Americans Sweep All but One Match in Holding Links Supremacy.

By The Associated Press

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 1.—The British left a physical mark on the classic Walker cup, the result of a wild shot by their only winner, besides proving they can "take it" and still come back fighting, but otherwise today they were still far short of menacing American golf supremacy.

Captained by Francis Ouimet, a team of youngsters, ranging in years from 20 to 25, sustained the United States' unbroken winning streak in the international competition. The Americans won eight out of 12 matches, lost one and halved three others.

George T. Dunlap, Jr., and Maurice J. McCarthy, Jr., both of New York, Charley Seaver, of Los Angeles, and Gus Moreland, of Dallas, all doing double duty, as well as the rising young Virginian, Billy Howell, dominated the two-day conflict.

The "freshmen" figured in seven of the eight triumphs, Dunlap, Seaver and Moreland each turning in two winning performances.

Britain's lone victory was scored by the English schoolmaster, Leonard Crawley, over the veteran George Voigt, of New York, one up on the thirty-sixth hole.

All-Stars To Play.

The Marion All Stars will play six ball games next week. The schedule follows: Central Christian Juniors Monday at 2 p. m. and 6 p. m.; Lee Street juniors, Tuesday, at silk mill at 6 p. m.; Jenner A. C. Wednesday at Glenwood diamond at 6 p. m. McKinley park team Thursday at Central at 6 p. m. and Babcock Athletics at Central Friday at 6 p. m.

LABOR UNION BACKS FINAL INDEPENDENT PROGRAM OF SEASON

Brook's Mortiçians, Colored, of Columbus, Bucyrus and Marion To Play.

What is expected to be the last program of independent softball here this summer will be presented Labor day at Lincoln park under the auspices of the Marion Central Labor union in connection with the Labor day celebration. Four fast teams will clash in a three-game tournament with the winning team to be given $25. The first game will start at 1 p. m.

The four competing teams will be the Marion Jenner Lunches, Underwood's Poultry of Marion, the crack Brooks' Morticians, colored, of Columbus and the Bucyrus Bulldogs.

The Jenner Lunches and Underwood Poultry teams have both captured trophies in connection with the weekly one-day Sunday tournaments which have been played all summer at Lincoln park. The Jenner team will probably have Mike Keller of Nevada on the mound while Mutt Kellogg is expected to do the twirling for the Poultrymen in at least one game.

The Brooks' Morticians will be well remembered by fans for some great games played here earlier this summer. The Columbus colored combine competed in the Ohio championship tournament and lost in the quarter finals to the Hodes-Zink of Fremont by a 1-0 score in one of the best ball games played here this season. They are coming here intent on capturing this meet. Dudley, a speed ball flinger, will probably take the hill for the Morticians.

Which teams will meet in the first two games is uncertain. Drawings will be made to determine the opponents at 12 noon on Labor day with the first game to start at an hour later.

The games should provide a good finishing touch to the best independent softball season which Marion has ever had.

Christian Averages

Checking the batting averages of the Christian Seniors' softball team, eliminated Thursday night from the struggle for the city diamond championship, shows that Bill Fetter, second sacker for the No. 2 church league titlists, led the team in the matter of getting hits. Fetter banged out four safe hits in seven official trips to the plate, for a .571 average. He struck out twice and fouled out once. He drew a walk which does not count as a trip to the plate. The averages of the remaining three teams have not been checked completely. However, several are hitting at a .500 clip or better. Which isn't bad batting in any league.

Series Gets Louder

With three games of the series already played it appears quite likely that the total series gate this year will not total as high at that of 1931 and will not even approach that of 1930 which holds the record. The total taken in the first three games this year is $181.80. The first three last year netted $281.35. The total last year was $762.62. However, the remaining games of the series promise to be better battles from start to finish and this is likely to bring the figure up to fairly near the mark of last year.

WHILE OTHERS FLOUNDER, NEBRASKA LEAGUE GOES THROUGH BANNER YEAR

By The Associated Press

LINCOLN, Neb.—Amateurs have made a good thing of Nebraska's professional baseball league.

While bigger and better circuits flounder under dwindling receipts and flagging interest, Class D teams in the Cornhusker state scrap for the pennant again this summer with real support from home town fans.

The league got out of the red last year, led by Bob Russell, league president, of Lincoln, former all around athlete at the University of Nebraska. Like the club presidents, he has had no professional baseball experience, draws no salary and expects no profits.

Fun Main Idea

"We'll be happy if we pay all the bills," he said, "but it's a lot of fun.

Included in the "fun" is seeing youngsters who started with the league climb up through the big minors into the majors. As one of two Class D leagues remaining out of 17, the Nebraska circuit offers a few of the rare chances for a start in organized baseball.

"Don't tell me that all the boys want to do now is caddy," said Russell. "We had enough turn out this spring to make ten leagues. Fifteen hundred of them paid their own way here from Canada, Cuba, the Hawaiian islands and the east coast just to get a chance at a $75 a month berth. And we could grab only 78 of them."

$75 Per Standard

The $75 per month salary rule is the first secret of existence for this league while others have fallen in the ditch of debt. Each of the 15 players in the six clubs, with the exception of the managers, draws a uniform wage. Other expenses are pared accordingly.

The second secret is civic pride. The local business men back the clubs and sign the notes. They are interested in the boys and the team and so are the townsfolk.

Small Town Circuit

With the exception of Lincoln the Nebraska league towns are small.—McCook with only 6,800 population may be the smallest in professional baseball. The others—Beatrice, North Platte, Norfolk and Grand Island—average about 12,000.

Night baseball started early in the league. The electric installation at the Lincoln park in 1930 probably was the first in the country although Des Moines got in ahead with a regular game.

Sales Big Item

The sale of players means the difference between profit and loss to the leagues. Twenty-five moved up last year. Scouts like the clubs because every boy there is new material. None of them has had previous professional experience outside the league, none is over 25 years old and the average is 20 years.

In the big minors these boys have done well, although they haven't made the majors yet. Roy Schalk, who started here when 16 years old and became an outstanding player in the Western league, has just been sold to the Yankees by Oklahoma City.

Started five years ago, the league was deep in debt at the end of the 1930 season and the presidency was going begging. The backers wanted to pay back their friends before they quit and got Russell to take charge for another attempt. In one year the obligations were liquidated but the backers decided not to quit.

"A baseball man will do things no sane person would do," said Russell.

Swanson, Crawford Tied for Lead in A. A. Batting

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 2—A pair of teammates, Evar Swanson and Pat Crawford of the Columbus Red Birds, are staging a batting race in the American Association.

At the end of the twentieth week of the season they were tied for first place with averages of .357, and between them were involved in four individual leaderships. Art Ruble of Minneapolis was running third with .361.

Swanson was tied with Joe Hauser, the Minneapolis slege gun, for runs batted in honors with 127. Swanson also was tied in the business of hitting triples, having slashed out 17 to share the lead with Phil Todt of St. Paul and O'Dell Hale of Toledo. He was the league's best base stealer, having collected 43 sacks. Crawford led in total bases. His 209 hits were good for 334 bases.

Joe Mowry, Minneapolis' consistent young outfielder, led in scoring with 148 runs. Bill Knickerbocker, Toledo shortstop, got three more two base hits during the week, for a total of 60.

Hauser was in a class by himself in knocking home runs, belting out six during the week for a 49 total, to leave himself only five away from Nick Cullop's Association total, established while with Minneapolis in 1930. Following Swanson, Crawford and Ruble were the following regulars: Pick, Kansas City, .349; Cullop, Columbus, .348; Gillic, Milwaukee, .345; Mowry, Minneapolis, .343; Wingard, Indianapolis, .343; O. Hale, Toledo, .342; Fenner, St. Paul, .330, and Ernie Smith, Minneapolis, .328.

Bud Parmelee of Columbus, ranked as the leading pitcher with eleven victories and one defeat, while his southpaw teammate, Bill Lee, had won 17 and lost seven.

Columbus continued to lead in team batting with a mark of .313, and St. Paul held on as the best fielding club with an average of .975. The Saints also led in double plays with 170, and had made the only triple play of the campaign.

LONG SHOTS BEATEN IN P. G. A. TOURNEY

Dutra, Dudley Favored as Meet Goes into Semi-Finals.

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Sept. 2—It was Olin Dutra, the strapping par-smasher from Santa Monica, Calif., against Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., and champion Tom Creavy of Albany, N. Y., opposed to the surprising Frank Walsh, of Chicago, today as the national professional golf show entered the semi-finals.

Gone were the long shots, Al Collins of Kansas City, Ralph Stonehouse, mighty little Hoosier from Indianapolis, and Herman Barron from Portchester, N. Y. Out of the struggle, too, was Bobby Cruickshank, New York's wee Scot, with a deadly punch.

Nothing but sizzling struggles were anticipated today as the four members of the tournament's fast man's club opened their drives for Sunday's final but the one between Dutra and Dudley was regared as the "natural" with the odds fluttering strongly toward the Pacific coast star, now in the midst of his greatest year in golf.

FOXX PICKS UP

A's Star Regains Form but O'Doul Still on Top.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 3—Jimmie Foxx began to swing his bat in his early season form this week but still failed to catch up with Frank O'Doul, of Brooklyn, the major league leader.

In seven days, ending with yesterday's games, the Athletics' ace smashed out 13 hits, scored nine runs and batted in seven, shot his batting average up seven points to .396 and yet remained five points behind O'Doul, National league leader.

At the same time, Foxx was threatened from a new quarter as Dale Alexander, of the Boston Red Sox, boosted his average to .370.

Chuck Klein of the Phillies, National league slugging ace, led his league in hits, runs, homers and stolen bases and was second in the other three departments.

MILLERS NEARING ASSOCIATION FLAG

CHICAGO, Sept. 3—About all there is left of the American Association championship race is the disposal of the other seven places. Minneapolis today bring just about in.

The Millers trimmed St. Paul 13 to 2, yesterday to increase their margin over Columbus to nine full games. At the rate Dozie Bush has been operating his machine, nine games is plenty. Even if they win only half of their remaining 28 games, Columbus, holder of second position, would have to grab 22 decisions out of 28.

KIRKWOOD TO PLAY AT UPPER SANDUSKY

UPPER SANDUSKY, Sept. 3—Joe Kirkwood, famous trick golf shot and one of the best golfers in the country, will visit Evergreen golf course on the Lincoln highway, east of Upper Sandusky, Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 7, at 1 o'clock. He will play an 18-hole match with the following pros: Ben Miller, of Marion; Bob Farrell, of Tiffin, and Willis Corbin, of Fostoria, and will also give an hour's exhibition of trick shots and a lecture on golf.

Billiards vs. Morral.

The Owens Billiards baseball team of Marion will collide with Morral of the Heart of Ohio league Sunday afternoon at Morral. Red Owens has named Pohlet, Sawyer and McAninch to play with his team and is expecting a tough game. Morral has dropped but two starts all summer. The game is called at 2:30 p. m. Darrell will do the pitching for Marion.

EX-LEGIONS DEFEAT NEWARK; WILL PLAY HILLSBORO SUNDAY

Castner Hurls Marion Combine to 5-3 Win in Well-Played Game.

The Marion Ex-Legion baseball team racked up its third victory in six starts yesterday by taking the measure of the Newark Beaver Juniors at Lincoln park 5-3 in a well played contest. Newark chased three runs across the plate in the first frame, all unearned tallies, but after that failed to dent the plate.

The Ex-Legions, with the aid of some solid batting, drove five men across and not a single run was unearned. Lindsey and McAninch led the hitters, each with two safe blows. A total of 10 hits rattled off the Marion war clubs.

Earl Castner did the flinging for the Ex-Legions and gave up only five hits. He walked five men and struck out six.

The Ex-Legion Preps beat the Cub Preps in a preliminary game, 22-19.

Batteries and score by innings:

Newark	300 000 000—3	5 0
Marion	000 202 10x—5	10 1

Newark, Ankrum and Smith; Marion, Castner and McAninch.

Holders of one of the best records in the state in Legion junior baseball over the last three-year period, Hillsboro will invade the Lincoln park diamond Sunday afternoon at 3:30 p. m. for a clash with Walter Hane's Marion Ex-Legions. This game will be preceded at 1:30 p. m. by a softball exhibition between two picked Marion teams.

Hillsboro has been champion of its respective district for the last three years and has also made excellent showings in the state championship meets. This season the team was defeated by Lima in the semi-final game. Since the state Legion tourney the club has been playing Sunday baseball to good crowds in the home city.

The Marion Ex-Legions have also compiled a fairly good record against competition from this section. Either Earl Castner or Don Lindsey will probably be on the firing line for the Marion club.
